Upon entering the program students are called Teacher Candidates. Teacher Candidates, cooperating teachers and supervisors all agree to FERPA requirements as outlined by OSU policy. Teacher Candidates sign an agreement to allow cooperating teachers, faculty and supervisors to discuss their progress across the program which includes classroom grades, dispositions (see retention policy) and student teaching. See link for further details. <https://registrar.oregonstate.edu/FERPA>

Overview of Program

Become a teacher and an educational leader

Earn two degrees concurrently – education and a content area with a teaching license.

This program uses a collaborative cohort approach that allows you to build rapport and professional relationships with fellow pre-service educators.

The Education Double Degree program enables students to earn two undergraduate degrees concurrently – one in their chosen field and one in education (see endorsements and options below). Our nation's communities, schools, and organizations will demand a minimum of 2.2 million new teachers and educational leaders over the next decade and these educators must be prepared to meet today's educational challenges.

Process for measuring and communicating a review of satisfactory progress

The Double Degree Undergraduate Program in Education is a nine month program that runs from August to June. Students must complete 36 program credits in the degree and 15 prerequisite courses to complete the program. Student's progress is monitored at the end of each term to ensure program requirements are met (3.0 GPA and a passing score of a C in all classes). Because student teaching skills build from one term to the next, Teacher Candidates must earn a C or better in all course work and receive a satisfactory evaluation from their Cooperating Teacher and University Supervisor at the end of each term. Without a satisfactory evaluation Teacher Candidates will not move on to the next term. Teacher Candidates cannot move on to the next term of student teaching with an Incomplete in a course. Teacher Candidates must pass ED 408 in order to move on to fall term ED 409 (fall student teaching), and then must pass SED 409 fall to move on to winter ED 407 (part-time student teaching). Teacher Candidates must pass winter ED 407 to move on to spring term of student teaching. Teacher Candidates must pass ED 410 (spring term student teaching/assignments) in order to be recommended for a teaching license. See appendix for specific retention description.

Registration

The OSU Schedule of Classes is available online and contains academic regulations and registration procedures that apply to all students in the university, as well as the final examination week schedule. The online catalog contains up-to-date changes for the current and immediately upcoming term. It is your responsibility to register for the appropriate number of credits that may be required for any funding eligibility and/or to meet the requirements of the continuous enrollment policy. Problems arising from registration procedures, such as late registration, adding or withdrawing from courses after deadlines are resolved through the petition for late change in registration. A late registration fee may be applied. Courses in the program cannot be taken as S/U.

Grievance Procedures

Students in the program who are discouraged or have a complaint should follow this process. See Appendix.

- Discuss the complaint/need/issue with the instructor, supervisor or CT to see if you can resolve this in a professional manner. Keep notes on your concern and how you approached the situation.
- If the issue is not resolved set up a meeting with the Program Lead to discuss the concern.
- If the issue is not resolved with the Program Lead the student would then meet with the Associate Dean of Educator Prep Programs, then Associate Dean of Academic Affairs.

Incomplete Grades

An "I" (incomplete) grade is granted only at the discretion of the instructor. The incomplete that is filed by the instructor at the end of the term must include an alternate/default grade to which the incomplete grade defaults to the end of the specified time period. The time allocated to complete the required tasks for the course may be extended by petition to the University Academic Requirements Committee. You can obtain the form from the Registrar's Office. It is the student's responsibility to see that "I" grades are removed within the allotted time.

Student Conduct and Community Standards

Students enrolled at Oregon State University are expected to conform to basic regulations and policies developed to govern the behavior of students as members of the university community. The Office of Student Conduct and Community Standards (SCCS) is the central coordinating office for student conduct-related matters at Oregon State University. Choosing to join the Oregon State University community obligates each member to a code of responsible behavior which is outlined in the Student Conduct Code. The assumption upon which this Code is based is that all persons must treat one another with dignity and respect in order for scholarship to thrive. Violations of the regulations subject a student to appropriate disciplinary action.

In addition students are also expected to comply with school district policies/mandates, TSPC Character Questions and College of Education standards of conduct (see Appendix).

Academic Dishonesty

Academic Dishonesty is defined as an act of deception in which a student seeks to claim credit for the work or effort of another person, or uses unauthorized materials or fabricated information in any academic work or research, either through the Student's own efforts or the efforts of another. It includes:

- CHEATING — use or attempted use of unauthorized materials, information or study aids, or an act of deceit by which a Student attempts to misrepresent mastery of academic effort or information. This includes but is not limited to unauthorized copying or collaboration on a test or assignment, using prohibited materials and texts, any misuse of an electronic device, or using any deceptive means to gain academic credit.
- FABRICATION — falsification or invention of any information including but not limited to falsifying research, inventing or exaggerating data, or listing incorrect or fictitious references.
- ASSISTING — helping another commit an act of academic dishonesty. This includes but is not limited to paying or bribing someone to acquire a test or assignment, changing someone's grades or academic records, taking a test/doing an assignment for someone else by any means, including misuse of an electronic device. It is a violation of Oregon state law to create and offer to sell part or all of an educational assignment to another person (ORS 165.114).

- TAMPERING — altering or interfering with evaluation instruments or documents
- PLAGIARISM — representing the words or ideas of another person or presenting someone else's words, ideas, artistry or data as one's own, or using one's own previously submitted work. Plagiarism includes but is not limited to copying another person's work (including unpublished material) without appropriate referencing, presenting someone else's opinions and theories as one's own, or working jointly on a project and then submitting it as one's own.

Academic Dishonesty cases are handled initially by the academic units, following the process outlined in the University's Academic Dishonesty Report Form, and will also be referred to SCCS for action under these rules.

Office of Equal Opportunity and Access

The OSU Office of Equal Opportunity and Access defines sexual harassment as the following:

- Unwelcome* sexual advances, requests for sexual favors and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature when:
- Submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual's employment or education;
- Submission to or reject of such conduct by an individual is used as the basis for employment or education –related decisions affecting such an individual; or
- Such conduct is sufficiently severe or pervasive that it has the effect, intended or unintended, of unreasonably interfering with an individual's work or academic performance because it has created an intimidating, hostile, or offensive environment and would have such an effect on a reasonable person of that individual's status.

Employee conduct directed towards a student – whether unwelcome or welcome – can constitute sexual harassment under OAR.*

There are two confidential resources to discuss reporting options: Center Against Rape and Domestic Violence (CARDV) provides 24/7 confidential crisis response at 541-754-0110 or 800-927-0197, and OSU Sexual Assault Support Services is available weekdays at 541-737-7604.

Student Records

Both federal and state laws permit Oregon State University staff to release directory information (e.g. name, address, degree program, birth date) to the general public without your consent. You can prohibit the release of directory information to the public by signing the Confidentiality Restriction form available from the Registrar's Office. It will not prohibit the release of directory information to entities of Oregon State University that have a “need to know” to accomplish their required tasks. It further will not prohibit Oregon State University departments from including your name on mailing lists for distribution of materials that are essential to your enrollment at Oregon State University.

Appendix

What are teacher dispositions?

Professional dispositions are the values, commitments and professional ethics that influence behaviors towards students, families, colleagues, and communities that affect student learning, motivation, and development as well as the educator's own professional growth. [InTASC 2011: Model Core Teaching Standards] [TSPC: The Professional & Ethical Educator] The development of these dispositions is considered part of a teacher education program and is reflected in our Conceptual Framework's Core Values: Ethics and Professionalism, Reflective Practitioner, and Diversity and Equity.

Who does the assessment of a teacher candidate's dispositions?

Students must demonstrate professional behavior in order to be accepted into the Program and these dispositions will be reviewed at time of application. The Disposition Assessment form will be introduced and discussed in April prior to the cohort year. These dispositions will be part of the ongoing assessment during Program coursework and student teaching. Ratings will be done throughout the program by the Cooperating Teachers and faculty. The positive development of these dispositions will reflect directly on a teacher candidate's success in the Program.

What should each teacher candidate know?

It is the student's responsibility to ask clarifying questions as well as demonstrate the expected dispositional behaviors. It is important for teacher candidates to demonstrate the dispositions both in their college coursework and in their field placements.

Student teaching assessment plan

- Prior to cohort year: Student will learn about professional expectations during their advising appointments and presentations.
- Spring term before year one: students will review professional expectations during spring cohort meeting.
- September year one: Teacher Candidates will be introduced to the Professional Dispositions form and will review them with their Cooperating Teachers.

- NOVEMBER/DECEMBER Cooperating Teachers and Supervisors will fill out a Dispositions Assessment for Teacher Candidates with whom they have worked fall term. Any concerns will be discussed with the Teacher Candidate and the University Supervisor. The Assessments by the Cooperating Teacher will be entered on Taskstream as the Fall Disposition Assessment.
 - Faculty will review the ratings for all Candidates and consider a course of action for any concerns. This assessment will be part of the consideration of the Candidate's readiness to move into part-time student teaching winter term. If a Plan of Assistance is deemed necessary, it will be written by the Program Lead, in collaboration with others who work with the Candidate and saved in the Candidate's file. The Plan will list specific measures to allay concerns. This Plan will be monitored winter term to confirm positive progress. Continued, serious dispositional concerns may result in the Candidate taking a leave of absence and delaying winter part-time student teaching for one year, or being dropped from the Program. Any decision on delaying student teaching or removal from the Program can be appealed to the Associate Dean of Educator Preparation Programs.
- MARCH: At the end of part-time student teaching, Cooperating Teachers will again fill out a Dispositions Assessment for the teacher candidates with whom they work. Any concerns will be shared with the University Supervisor and Program Lead.

Faculty will review the ratings for all candidates and consider a course of action for any concerns. If a Plan of Assistance is necessary, it will be written by the Program Lead, in collaboration with others who work with the Candidate and saved in the Candidate's file. The Plan will list specific measures to determine progress toward eliminating concerns. The Plan will be monitored to make sure the Candidate is progressing and able to complete the program. The Program Lead will report on the Candidate's progress to the program faculty and talk about any remaining concerns. The faculty will determine if the Candidate is ready to proceed to full-time student teaching spring term. If not, a course of action, including the possibility of being dropped from the Program, will be considered. Any decision on delaying full-time student teaching or removal from the Program can be appealed to the Associate Dean of Educator Preparation Programs.

Teacher Candidate Dispositions Statement

Dispositions are the habits of professional action and moral commitments that underlie a Teacher Candidate’s performance (InTASC Model Core Teaching Standards, 2011; CAEP Accreditation Handbook, 2016). Along with content knowledge and pedagogical skills, dispositions are an essential component of effective teaching that increases student learning. As such, the development of professional teacher dispositions and the demonstration of those dispositions through observable behavior is an integral part of each program in the OSU College of Education teacher education programs.

The teacher education program faculty has defined a set of 20 disposition statements that directly align with the core values of the Conceptual Framework: Ethics and Professionalism, Diversity and Equity, Reflective Practice and Lifelong Learner. The dispositions also directly reflect the Performance Indicators for Candidate Completers which align with InTASC and Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation (CAEP) standards. The dispositions are stated as observable behaviors that Teacher Candidates are expected to demonstrate in all educational settings; therefore, Candidates will be evaluated using the Dispositions Assessment at these transition points: 1) pre-clinical practice, 2) first student teaching experience, and 3) second student teaching experience/exit from the program. Retention Policy

Student retention in the College of Education teacher prep programs, BS/BA Education, Double Degree and Master of Science, is based upon the academic and professional judgment of the university faculty responsible for the evaluation of students' academic, practicum, and student teaching performance. The faculty considers not only academic abilities and skill performance when making retention decisions about a student, but also such aspects as whether the student has appropriate levels of maturity, judgment, emotional stability, sensitivity to others, and whether or not the student exhibits appropriate professional conduct. The teacher education faculty has developed this Retention Policy based upon continuous evaluations of students in the teacher prep program by university faculty and staff and by public school cooperating teachers and administrators. Students are evaluated on the benchmarks from the Professional Dispositions and learning outcomes found in course syllabi including, the ability to successfully plan for instruction; establish a classroom climate conducive to learning; exhibit professional behaviors, ethics and values; evaluate student progress; and on their ability to engage students in planned learning activities. The following information and procedures are established to guide decisions regarding the retention of students in the program.

Throughout each term, faculty members, and Cooperating Teachers, and University Supervisors meet to evaluate each Teacher Candidate's progress and teaching effectiveness. Those Candidates assessed as having difficulty will receive feedback concerning their progress from the appropriate university faculty and/or the Program Lead. A Teacher Candidate who is struggling will be placed on a Plan of Assistance. This plan will be created by the Program Lead in cooperation with the University Supervisor and Candidate. Each plan will outline benchmarks and a timeline to be met and supports provided to the Candidate. Supports could include, but are not limited to: extra observations with feedback/suggestions, check-in meetings for additional reflection, additional materials, and flexible timelines.

1. Academic Standards

- Students must meet the academic standards required by the Graduate School and the MS program in order to continue from one term to the next.

Full-time students who do not complete their classes in one term, will not move on to student teaching the following term. Candidates will need to take a leave of absence and return the following year to retake the classes.

2. Professional-Ethical Standards

According to various accreditation organizations (CAEP, ACA, TSPC, Oregon OARs, Public Schools, NGOs, Non-Profits), all Teacher Candidates seeking licensure and graduating from the College of Education at Oregon State University must meet all professional standards of practice, evidence of proper dispositions within their chosen field, as well as complying with the University Student Conduct Regulations.

The candidate must demonstrate acceptable standards of professional behavior in five key areas:

- I. Professional conduct toward students, clients, youth, and adult learners;
- II. Professional practice;
- III. Professional conduct toward professional colleagues, including university faculty, staff, and internship and field placement supervisors and administrators;
- IV. Professional conduct toward the general community, including educators, parents, and other community members
- V. Technology use that includes “netiquette,” ensuring copyright, not plagiarizing, not using computers inappropriately for pornography or personal gain.

Professional behavior includes respect, honor and integrity, altruism, responsibility and accountability, leadership, caring, compassion, and communication, and excellence of scholarship.

The College of Education at Oregon State University holds Candidates accountable in both academics and practice. It is necessary, but not sufficient to perform well academically. Teacher Candidates must also behave in ways that support the professional nature of the work. In other words, personal issues that negatively impact teaching performance are considered as significant as low academic performance on assignments.

The Professional Dispositions Statement is reviewed each year. A signed copy of the statement along with acceptance forms is kept in student files. These dispositions are posted on the College of Education website and are also provided in program handbooks.

Candidates who meet or exceed the standards of professional behavior will continue in their chosen field of study without interruption. Candidates who do not meet the standards must complete the following retention procedures.

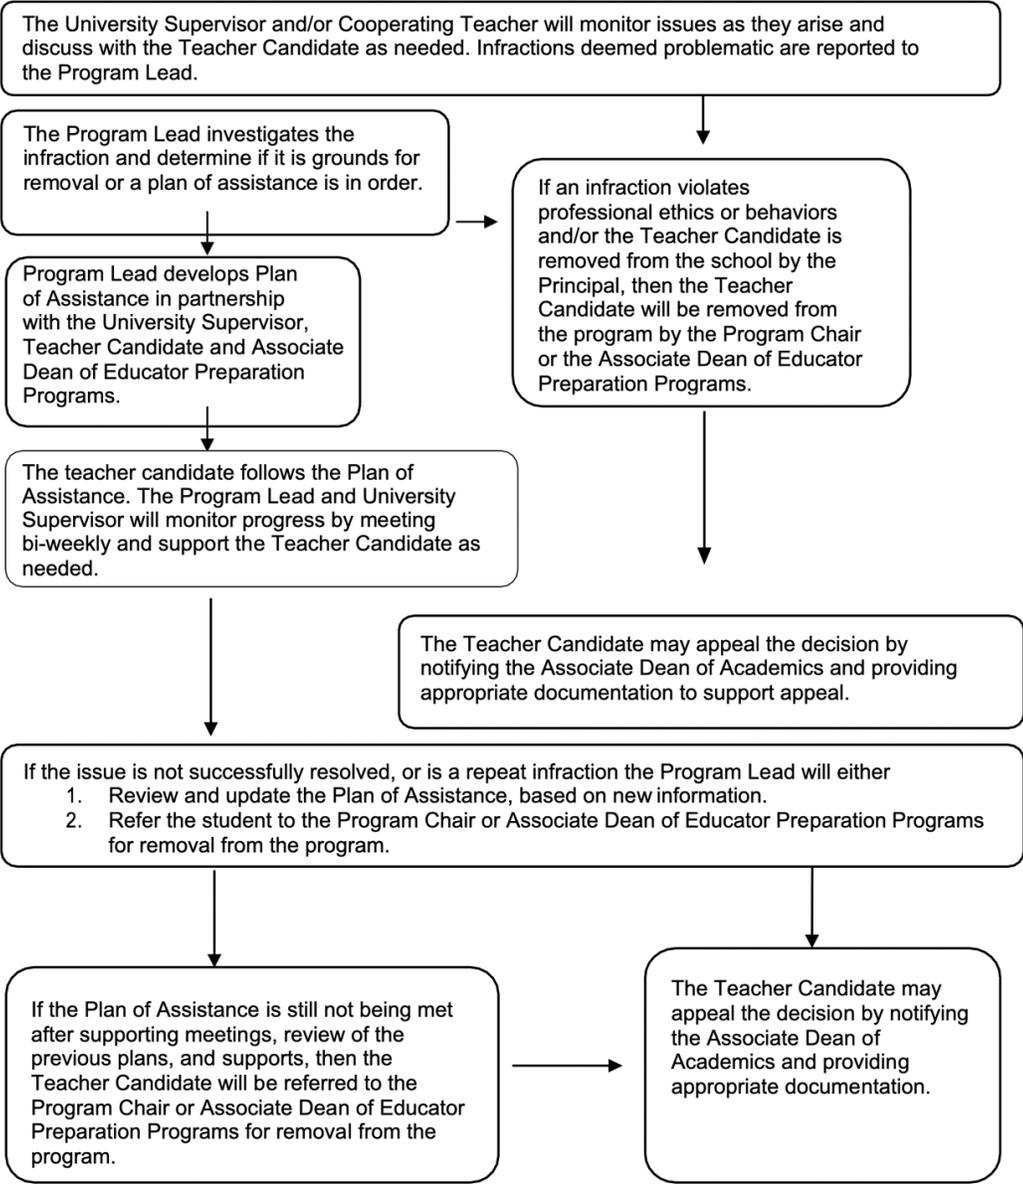

3. Retention Procedures

Candidates will be placed on a plan of assistance during which they will receive support from program faculty and the lead. This plan of assistance will stipulate benchmarks and a timeline for improving behaviors.

A Candidate may be removed from a practicum or student teaching site by the program if their performance does not meet benchmark requirements as stipulated in the Plan of Assistance or if performance is determined to be consistently inadequate, inappropriate, or unprofessional by the Program Chair or Associate Dean of Educator Preparation Programs.

A student may immediately be removed from the site school at the request of the school principal (or appropriate administrator).

The Plan of Assistance process identified in the steps below will be afforded the Candidate if it is felt that they are not making satisfactory progress as outlined in the benchmarks and/or course syllabi.

College of Education Student Grievance & Escalation Guidance

Please note that the following grievance procedures are for matters that do not comply with the existing student grievance policy related to (a) academic decisions (i.e., grading) and (b) academic dishonesty. Please note that for these circumstances the OSU policy should be followed.

Undergraduate students in College of Education programs should first confer with the faculty member with whom they have a potential conflict to discuss their concerns and work toward a resolution of this conflict. Should the student be unable to address this issue with the faculty member in question or find the resolution of the issue with the faculty member to be unsatisfactory, the student should proceed in bringing the matter to the program chair for potential resolution. Should the issue still persist or not be addressed fully by the program chair, the student should then bring the concern to the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs. If the student is unable to address or resolve the issue through the assistance of the Associate Dean, the student can then bring the issue to the Dean of the College of Education. If none of these levels of recourse resolves the issue for the student, the student should then approach the Dean of Students of the campus. In addition, undergraduate and graduate students can also seek the counsel of the Office of Advocacy through ASOSU throughout this process.
